1. Cocktail Reception

When the guests arrive, they are served a fresh fruit cocktail and have a chance to relax and mingle.

2. Barwizard Show Demonstration

Once everybody is settled, then we start our show. We perform a 2-3 min routine to music, this grabs their attention and breaks the ice.

3. Cocktail Countdown Game

Now its your turn! Guests are split into teams and asked to watch carefully, the guests will be taught aspects on being a modern day mixologist. We then make a cocktail and ask a member from each team to come behind the bar and make the cocktails against the clock. We then judge the efforts and award points. There will be several rounds making different styles of drinks using various techniques and methods. After each round the drinks demonstrated will be served up to your guests.

4. Flair Round

The next round is based on the famous Barwizards flair Bartending show. members of each team will be taught a couple of tricks (with plastic training bottles!!), and then asked to perform them as part of the Barwizards show. Team members will be judged and awarded points.

5. Drink Creation Round

The teams are now presented with a mystery box, containing a variety of possible cocktail ingredients (some not that easy to mix!). They are asked to pick three ingredients, and using the spirits and liqueurs on show create their own cocktail. Teams can experiment to get their required concoction just right. The groups will then nominate a bartender from their group to come up to the bar and demonstrate their cocktail. Barwizards will mingle with the groups, record the recipes and take some photographs. If all the members are from one company, we often ask them to sum up the core values of their company in their cocktail.

6. Prize Giving

We award prizes for the "best team" and an individual prize for the "best barwizard". We then perform another show using full bottles and making them another round of drinks.

The programme lasts around 2 hours, but can be tailored for shorter times if need be.
